POLITICAL SCIENCE & INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Undergraduate Programs

The Department of Political Science & International Studies offers courses focusing largely on the study of political science, a liberal arts discipline which seeks to understand the political condition and potential of humanity. Each of the department’s three degree programs is designed to provide the student with a broad understanding of political phenomena suitable to a liberal arts degree. Thus each, regardless of its specific content, requires courses in political philosophy, in American political institutions and processes and in comparative and/or international politics. In addition, the pre-law program is designed to prepare the student for a particular vocational goal. The department’s International Affairs Program provides a more interdisciplinary approach to the study of government and politics. The discipline of Political Sciences and therefore the program of the Department of Political Science & International Studies is strongly committed to a liberal arts orientation. In concert with the rest of the university, the department believes in linking traditional liberal arts preparation with meaningful career preparation through the inclusion of minor and supporting coursework and/or through student involvement in certificate programs in this or other departments. Employment opportunities for graduates are many and varied. A number of those who graduate each year continue their studies in law or other professional and graduate programs. A similar number find employment in the public sector or with domestic or international business firms. Opportunities also exist in party politics, campaign organizations, the military forces or with the communications media.

The department maintains close relations with the programs in Criminal Justice and contains the International Affairs program. In each, selected government courses are required parts of the core curriculum.

Internship and Work-Study Programs for Students

The department maintains a dynamic internship program which provides practical experience with local political and governmental agencies and annually sponsors a winter quarter in Olympia in which selected students intern with the Washington State Legislature. When possible, it is strongly urged that students include an internship as a part of their program.

In addition to external internships, students may gain practical experience through a combination of work/study and internship with a particular faculty member. Students qualifying for such programs assist the professor to whom they are assigned with research work in an area of the faculty member’s interest. The department has an active faculty with diverse research interests who have produced books and monographs, presented papers at conventions of national and regional Political Science associations and of other, more specialized scholarly organizations and completed research grants funded by agencies of the government. The opportunity to assist in such work is of value particularly to those students planning to continue their studies, or to work in the public sector in areas necessitating faculty guidance in research techniques.

Pi Sigma Alpha

In the spring of 1982, the Nu Gamma Chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha, the National Political Science Honorary Society, was chartered at Eastern. This student organization serves as a vehicle for recognition of outstanding academic achievement in government and complements the department’s participation in the university Honors Program. Pi Sigma Alpha sponsors a number of social and intellectual programs for students and faculty and with its help the department attempts to maintain contact with its graduates to make available to students their experiences and insights into the value of an education in government.

Certificate

Student Learning Outcomes—students will:

- demonstrate awareness of historical, social, cultural, geographic and political dynamics in Asia and Asian countries;
- apply normative and empirical tools to the study of Asian political, cultural and governmental realities, both past and present;
- apply knowledge of Asian history to interpret current political, social and cultural dynamics in Asia and in comparison to other world regions;
- acquire basic communication skills in at least one Asian language;
- attain advanced understanding of Asia sufficient to enter graduate studies concerning the region, or a career track wherein expertise in Asia is necessary.

ASIA STUDIES CERTIFICATE (34 CREDITS)

Interest in Asia and Asian Studies has increased dramatically in recent years. For some, Asia represents opportunity for business, trade and commercial exchange as one of the new and vast marketplaces of the 21st century. For others, Asia is a place where remarkable expressions of traditional culture such as religion, poetry and art have stayed alive even into the 21st century. Located in the Pacific Northwest, Washington state is a gateway to the East and offers an ideal setting to learn about the interactions between Asia and the rest of the world. This Asia Studies Certificate offers students the opportunity for a highly specialized and integrative look at trans-regional and international issues related to Asia focusing on the culture, history, politics and languages of the region.

Acceptance to the certificate program requires that the student have a cumulative grade point average 3.0 in all courses at EWU and the approval of the certificate coordinator. In no course required for the certificate can the student receive <3.0 and all courses within the certificate must have a minimum cumulative grade point average 3.3.

All required courses for the certificate other than the language requirement must be completed at EWU. Transfer credits other than language credits will not be accepted for certificate completion. Completion of this certificate will also satisfy the minor requirement for students completing majors where a minor is required.

Required Language (10 credits of a relevant language)

This may be met with credits from outside of EWU.

Directed Study Assessment (1 credit)

POLI 493 Portfolio Assessment (1–2)

Choose two courses from two of the areas and one course from the third (23–25 credits)

All course selections must be approved by the certificate coordinator. Note: other courses may be substituted as electives if selected in consultation with and approved by the certificate coordinator.

Public Policy and Administration Certificate

The Certificate in Policy Administration is intended for students who are interested in pursuing a graduate level education in an applied field. Completion of the 44 credit certificate provides a sharply focused view of policy implementation and application within the American system of government. In addition, the certificate provides students the opportunity to receive advanced placement standing within EWU’s Master’s Program in Public Administration. Students who complete the certificate will be required to take 36 credits of MPA core courses instead of the normally required 40 and will be required to complete 10 elective credits, rather than the usually required 20. Acceptance to the certificate program requires that the student have a cumulative grade point average 3.0 in all courses at EWU and the approval of the certificate coordinator. In no course required for the certificate can the student receive <3.0 and all courses within the certificate must have a minimum cumulative grade point average 3.3.

All required courses for the certificate must be completed at EWU, transfer credits will not be accepted for certificate completion. Completion of this certificate will also satisfy the minor requirement for students completing majors where a minor is required.

POLITICAL SCIENCE & INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Terms offered: fall, winter, spring, summer (FWSU). If no terms are indicated, check with the department or EagleNET.

POLI 100 Modern Government in American Context (5)
Satisfies: GECR for social sciences, list 1, economics and government.
A general introduction to the concepts, methods and concerns involved in the study of government, this course discusses fundamental ideas such as power, ideology and constitutionalism; the citizen role in democratic politics; the structure and processes of major governmental institutions; and selected areas of policy making. Emphasizes the comparison of the American political system with that of other major, chiefly democratic, systems.

POLI 202 Introduction to Political Theory (5)
This course is an introduction to major thinkers and ideas within the tradition of Western political thought. Authors may include Plato, Aristotle, Machiavelli, Hobbes, Locke and Rousseau. Themes discussed include power, human nature, rights, political legitimacy and the ideal form of government. The course is also a primer on how to think and write theoretically. Through the essay composition process, students will refine their critical thinking skills and their ability to construct arguments of their own.

POLI 203 Introduction to Comparative Politics (5)
Satisfies: international studies university graduation requirement.
An introduction to concepts, such as state, power, ideology and political phenomena, emphasizing similarities and differences in selected political systems.

POLI 204 Introduction to International Politics (5)
Satisfies: international studies university graduation requirement.
A basic introduction to the nature of politics in the international arena, with special attention to the instruments of national power, diplomacy, international law and the role of various international organizations and alliance systems.

POLI 299 Special Studies (1–5)
Prerequisite: permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.
Subjects studied vary according to faculty and student interest.

POLI 300 U.S. Judicial Process (5)
Prerequisite: POLI 100.
This course examines the relationship of judicial behavior to structure, politics and the behavior of other actors in the judicial process. This includes examination of judicial processes from the trial court level through the Supreme Court of the United States.

POLI 302 Criminal Procedure (5)
This course is an examination of the philosophic and legal bases for protection of the rights of the criminally accused, with emphasis on Supreme Court decisions on the fourth, fifth and sixth Amendments and on the due process clause of the 14th Amendment.

POLI 304 U.S. Civil Rights and Liberties (5)
Prerequisite: POLI 100.
This course examines the history and development of civil rights and liberties in the constitutional context of the United States. It emphasizes the problems of racial, religious, economic, political and sexual discrimination and their remedies under the law.
POLI 305 Jurisprudence (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 100 and POLI 202.
This course examines the philosophical underpinnings of the idea of law by examining the evolution of legal thought from Natural Law thinkers through Postmodern conceptions of legal reality. It includes discussion about the concepts of rules and justice as well as the nature and possibility of legal reasoning.

POLI 306 Basic Concepts of Criminal Law (5)
A survey of the basic concepts and content of the American substantive criminal law, including consideration of the purposes of the criminal law, the basic concepts utilized to define criminal offenses, defenses to criminal charges and examination of selected substantive offenses; e.g., assault, homicide, larceny.

POLI 307 U.S. Constitutional System (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 100 and POLI 100.
This course examines the principal structural features of the U.S. governmental system, primarily through the study of decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Particular attention is paid to the structural realities of separation of powers and federalism and to the development of the specific powers of the national government in the light of the powers retained by the states.

POLI 313 Ancient and Medieval Political Thought (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 202.
This course engages thinkers and themes from the political theory of ancient Greece. Authors read include the pre-Socratics, Plato, Aristotle, and Seneca, among others. Questions concerning the nature and purpose of politics, the ideal political order, the definition of justice and virtue, and the classification of knowledge will be pursued in detail. In addition to comparing various authors on these questions, students will spend some time considering the relations between political views and more contemporary attitudes.

POLI 314 Modern Western Political Thought (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 202.
This course is a detailed encounter with various thinkers of the Western political theoretical tradition, including Machiavelli, Hobbes, Locke, Rousseau, and John Stuart Mill, among others. Ideas discussed include human nature, the rise of the modern state, the role of the individual and the people, the role of law, and the origins and nature of political power.

POLI 317 American Political Thought (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 100 and POLI 202.
This course examines the major works which have influenced the political debate and the creation of institutions in the United States. Emphasis will be on America’s liberal tradition and those values which are in competition with the liberal philosophy in the United States. Other topics in the tradition of American political thought include democracy, liberty, individualism, localism and equality.

POLI 318 Marx and Marxism (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 202 and POLI 203.
This detailed examination of the political, economic and social theory of Karl Marx begins with a discussion of the ideas of G. W. F. Hegel, perhaps the most important European philosopher of the 19th century. An in-depth discussion of Marx’s thinking. Students subsequently read a large number of primary works by Marx himself with excerpts from the writings of Vladimir Lenin, the protagonist of the 1917 Russian Revolution.
POLI 333 Public Management (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 100.
This course examines the fundamental concepts, approaches and leading theories of policy analysis. From a linear conception of policy making to a more complex understanding of policy; this course provides both a general and practical understanding of public policy issues, including those in the realm of social welfare, health, energy, environment, food and agriculture, and national and global security. The course content encompasses the development, formulation, implementation and evaluation of policy. While dealing with substantive sectors and institutional aspects of public policy analysis the course also includes consideration of the complex interplay of power, knowledge and agency in the making of policy.

POLI 335 U.S. Congress (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 100.
This course examines the role of representative governance in the United States by exploring the theoretical underpinnings of the U.S. Congress as created by the Founders, as well as its functions and how those have evolved. It also studies relations between the Congress and the other branches and how members of Congress interact, both institutionally and individually.

POLI 336 U.S. Political Parties and Elections (5)
Prerequisites: POLI 100.
This course examines two of the ways that people can affect the political system, by voting and joining political parties, and it considers ways to link those through political campaigns. It will analyze and evaluate party systems and explore the functions of the modern U.S. political parties. Students will explore how and why people vote, the nature of modern elections and the evolution of campaigning in the United States.

POLI 350 Contemporary Political Problems (1–5)
Cross-listed: may be cross-listed with CHST 320.
Note: may be repeated for credit when topics vary.
A topical course designed to accommodate the interest of the general student and the department faculty. Recent offerings include Latin American Politics and International Security. Analysis of contemporary problems may be under the guidance of one or more department members.

POLI 360 State Legislative Politics Experience (5)
Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.
This course is designed to be a guided field experience with students in Olympia during the annual legislative session. It will connect the practical experiences students receive while interning in the Washington State Legislature with theoretical models of legislative behavior and case studies of legislative action. Course requires instructor approval and acceptance into the Washington State Legislative Internship Program.

POLI 370 Mock Trial I (5)
Prerequisite: permission of instructor.
Mock Trial I exposes students to courtroom procedures in civil or criminal cases, studying a trial as one form of dispute resolution. Working in teams, students receive a fictional legal case and prepare and argue both sides of that case by applying rules of evidence in a simulated courtroom. Students play the roles of attorneys and witnesses as they prepare and present their case in a courtroom setting. POLI 370 focuses on the basics of preparing and building a fictional legal case and introduces students to trial advocacy.

POLI 397 Workshop in Government (1–5)
Note: may be repeated for credit.
Specialized courses in a workshop-type situation of materials emphasizing current topics and problems in the political arena.

POLI 400 Topics in American Politics (5)
Note: may be repeated for credit.
An intensive examination of selected questions in the arena of American political institutions, processes and public policy. Topics vary from quarter to quarter and include executive reorganization, congressional reform, politics and the press, post-partisan politics and various policy impact studies that cover the values of individual choice and problems of political economy.

POLI 401 Topics in Political Theory (5)
Note: may be repeated for credit.
Prerequisites: POLI 202.
Each of the topics chosen for this course explores in depth the way in which different political thinkers have analyzed political phenomena. Topics may vary from quarter to quarter depending on the interests of the faculty and students. The course may be repeated for credit.

POLI 402 Topics in International Relations and Comparative Politics (5)
Note: may be repeated for credit.
Prerequisites: POLI 370 or permission.
The topic of this course varies from quarter to quarter, depending on student and faculty interests. Topics in the past have included international law, international organizations (especially the European Union), problems of the international political system, comparative analysis of West European gender regimes, causes of political change in Asia, comparision of civil society, democratization, and political development, causes and results of revolutions, the impact of social forces on the political system. The course may cover other topics as faculty and student interests change.

POLI 411 Federal Indian Law and Policy I (5)
Cross-listed: IDST 421.
This is the first course in a two course series on federal Indian law and policy. Federal Indian law is the body of law that regulates the relationship between Indian tribes and the United States. Federal Indian policy consists of the various doctrines underlying federal legislative and executive actions affecting Indian tribes. This course will introduce students to laws, regulations and case law that comprise federal Indian law as well as the policies underlying those laws. Topics will be further explored through the use of case studies.

POLI 422 Federal Indian Law and Policy II (5)
Cross-listed: IDST 422.
This course is a continuation of IDST 421. Topics covered include Modern Trust Doctrine, the Federal-Tribal Relationship, congressional plenary power, tribal jurisdiction and federal law, and American Indian tribes and tribal justice systems. These topics are explored through the use of case studies.

POLI 423 Senior Capstone: Globalization (5)
Cross-listed: INST 495, POLI 203 or POLI 204 and senior standing; or permission of instructor.
Note: may be repeated for credit.
This course is a senior-level seminar designed to integrate and further refine the analytical, writing and presentation skills acquired as a Political Science or International Affairs major. Its premise is that any student of politics or international affairs should graduate with a bachelor’s degree program with a refined sensibility of the concept (and varying realities) of globalization. The course covers case studies and theoretical analyses of the global dynamics of economic, cultural, religious, media and political relations as well as the influence of technology on globalization. Students prepare and present an original, extensive case study and analysis of globalization processes, if possible relating to the student’s work as an International Affairs or Political Science major.

POLI 430 Portfolio Assessment (1–2)
Prerequisite: senior standing or declared major POLI or INST or permission of instructor.
Advised by a member of the Political Science faculty, the student compiles an assessment portfolio of academic assignments completed in program specific courses at EWU. Taken during the term in which the student expects to complete the requirements for a program of study, this course provides the student with an opportunity to undertake guided academic/career planning as well as to participate in summative assessments.

POLI 445 Public Affairs Internship (1–15)
Prerequisite: permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.
Guided field experience designed to acquaint you with the formation and instrumentation of public policy; involves actual work with a political party, interest group, legislative body or administrative agency.

POLI 450 Seminar (1–5)
Prerequisite: permission of instructor.
An in-depth analysis of particular political phenomena, with emphasis on student research. Usually offered on an interdisciplinary basis in cooperation with other departments offering similar courses.

POLI 499 Directed Study (1–15)
Prerequisite: permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.
Projects in selected fields of government. Eastern Washington University offers students the opportunity to earn substantial amounts of coursework toward the requirements of a number of specific professions. Although the following Pre-Professional programs have been offered for several years by EWU, this listing is not exclusive; students who are interested in a profession which is not represented (below) are encouraged to contact the Office of General Undergraduate Academic Advising for assistance in identifying departments or programs which can offer coursework and advice as regards alternative Pre-Professional studies.
