Work Experience

Academic Experience

Associate Professor of Accountancy (tenured Spring 2008), Ohio University (2002 - 2016), Athens, Ohio. My Teaching locations for Ohio University have included the Ohio Cities of Athens, Lancaster, and Pickerington. Overseas teaching for Ohio University Has Included the cities of Bangalore, India (fourteen courses total). Wuhan, China (two Courses total), Belo Horizonte, Brazil (two courses), and Leipzig, Germany (three Courses total). The Teaching in Bangalore, India was in the Ohio University MBA program in India.

Visiting Lecturer, National Economics University (2011 - 2013), Hanoi, Viet Nam. Taught an introductory MBA accounting course in the English Language MBA Program of the National Economics University in Hanoi, Vietnam. My Ohio University Teaching load of six courses was booked in the fall and winter quarters, leaving the winter quarter open. This permitted overseas academic activity in Vietnam.

Visiting Lecturer, Vietnam National University (2011), Hanoi, Viet Nam. Taught an introductory MBA accounting course in a program leading to an MBA degree from Delaware State University USA. Taught in Hanoi, Vietnam.

Visiting Professor of Accountancy, Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (2004), Shanghai, China. Taught a comprehensive course covering the entirety of American Intermediate Accounting to Chinese undergraduates majoring in "American Accounting" The course was taught in the spring quarter with over 100 hours of classroom contact. I had completed my normal course teaching load of six courses for Ohio University during the fall and sinter quarters. The course was taught at the suggestion of Ohio University in order to "build a relationship."

Associate Professor of Accountancy (tenured Spring 1997), Boise State University (1992 - 2002), Boise, Idaho. My teaching locations for Boise State University included the Idaho cities of Boise and Twin falls. Overseas teaching was done in Hanoi, Vietnam (four courses total.)

Tutor (de facto a classroom instructor), Henly Management College (U.K.) (1999), Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon), Viet Nam. MBA Accounting, Economics, & Finance (integrated course) A volunteer (unpaid) Summer teaching assignment accepted because of the economic benefit to Boise State's partner in Vietnam - The National Economics University

Visiting Faculty, Portland State University (U.S.A.) (1999), Portland, Oregon. United States Agency for International Development Certificate Program. This program is the set of foundation business classes in the Portland State University undergraduate degree program, and its completion (with a Russian undergraduate degree) permits the completion of a Portland State university BBA or MBA in one year.

Visiting Professor (simultaneous appointment with NEU & BSU), The National Economics University (1997 - 1998), Hanoi, Viet Nam. Boise State University Received a grant from the Swedish National government to assist in the establishment of a business school at The National Economics University in Hanoi, Vietnam. An important part of the effort was to offer an AACSB accredited MBA program to junior faculty of the National Economics University. Some additional MBA students were also young managers or junior faculty of promise from other universities in northern and central Vietnam. The Vietnamese students received Boise State University MBA degrees with one term of coursework in Boise and internship at a business in Boise. The balance (most) of the MBA coursework was taught on the Hanoi campus of the national Economics University. The capstone of this MBA was a major supervised consulting research project at the business in Hanoi. Sponsors of consulting research projects that I supervised included Price Waterhouse, KPMG and Delta Equipment & Construction Co., the construction firm responsible for the building of the American consulate in Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon) and the new American Embassy in Hanoi. The National Economics University has traditionally been the lead institution for training the individuals responsible for government economics planning in the planned economy of Vietnam. Now, the National Economics University is tasked with training professionals necessary to develop the new market economy in Vietnam.

American Faculty, Russian-American School of Business Administration (1995 - 1997), Blagoveshensk, Russia. Boise State had an informal relationship with Portland State University (PSU) to supply volunteer faculty to teach in small business schools which it sponsored in the Russian Far East. The working concept was that PSU would link the American Northwest with the Russian Far East. PSU attempted to develop a close relationship between Blagoveshensk and Boise State to include a formal Sister City Relationship between the City of Boise and the City of Blagoveshensk. Further, there was an attempt to develop a formal sister state relationship between the state of Idaho and Amur Oblast, the Russian province of which Blagoveshensk is the capital. As a part of this effort I assisted in hosting in 1994 a study tour to Boise of the Russian Students I had taught in Blagoveshensk the previous year. At this time I was also the Boise State liaison for meetings in 1994 between the Amur Oblast Governor and State of Idaho Officials. Due to the on-again-off-again interest in a formal relationship common to both American and Russian officials, the relationship were never formalized. However, like some other faculty at Boise State I participated in the Boise State Efforts with PSU. Ultimately I taught on multiple occasions in PSU's programs as an unpaid volunteer faculty. I also taught in PSU's program in Yuzhno-Sakhalinsk.

Visiting Assistant Professor, The University of Texas at Austin (1996), Austin, Texas.

Instructor of Accounting, Loyola University of Chicago (1987 - 1989), Chicago, Illinois.
